Excellent Amateur Radio Strategic Planning from down under

The Radio Amateur Society of Australia (RASA) sent us, at the end of last year, an interesting document entitled: "A Strategic Review of Amateur Radio in Australia", in which, the current situation of ham radio there, is analyzed using a SWOT technique by a panel of volunteers.

The goals of the study were quite ambitious: explore the future of Amateur Radio; retain existing amateurs within the hobby; attract newcomers to the hobby; promote the interesting and exciting elements of the hobby and encourage greater participation; and promote the hobby from within as being inclusive, friendly and engaging.

The results, not at all surprising, do not seem very far from what happens in other places around the world.

The detailed action plan provides very innovative and interesting proposals in an specific section called "Recommended Strategies & Actions". However, ...

... when one reaches the end of this brilliant document, and it is time for the "Next steps", it seems that nothing can be done due to the lack of understanding between the various amateur radio organizations within the country.

Nothing new, according to the main threat detected in the SWOT analysis. Maybe the solution is to seek support outside of that harmful environment, isn't it? EURAO is QRV.

An small team of EURAO members from Romania, with the financial support of a local foundation in Buzau City: Fondul Stiintescu, started in April a program dedicated to the children and young people in order to experience applied science with the help of amateur radio.

EURAO Party - Autumn 2022: CQ mobile

The European Radio Amateurs' Organization announces a new party on the air, this time with the motto: "CQ mobile". Remember this is not a contest, it is just a radio meeting with a few simple 'rules', better to call them recommendations.

Purpose: Amateur radio stations on board vehicles can be very useful in an emergency. That is why it is so important to always have them ready, having fun with playful activities in moments of calm. The objective of this Party is to hunt as many /M stations as possible, keeping in mind that they will rarely be able to log your data. So write them down.

Date & time: October 1st to 31th, 2022, 00:00-24:00 UTC.
